

Abstract

An integrated circuit incorporating microelectromechanical systems (MEMS), having a total area greater than an area of at least one of the reticles used to manufacture it.

5